

A DAY IN THE

Life

OF...

CHARLOTTE WOUTERS Senior Consultant @ Michael Page

7:30

Hitting the gym with some colleagues, to start the day fresh. Thankfully, we have a gym in the same building as the office.

8:30

Screening and calling candidates who match the job descriptions.

10:00

I have one client meeting per day, to find out how we can help them and propose solutions.

11:00

Writing job descriptions to find the right candidates.

11:30

I think it's important to give back to society. That's why I'm a member of the charity committee. Today we made lunch boxes and delivered them to a social organisation.

12:30

Go to have lunch with some colleagues in one of the great restaurants in the city centre.

13:30

The hunt for talented candidates continues. I search through the database and on LinkedIn.

CV

14:30

Training junior consultants and interns on how to do the first candidate call. It's partially theory, partially a role-play.

16:00

We have a meeting with the two best candidates I've identified for a position.

18:00 - too late

It's Friday, so time for a drink with my colleagues to celebrate another great week.
